Violence against women and their children is a national emergency.

Violence against women does not discriminate. Regardless of ethnicity, social status and geography, violence against women places the safety and well-being of women and children at risk.

One woman is killed by a current, or former, partner almost every week in this country.

Women in Australia are at least three times more likely than men to experience violence at the hands of an intimate partner. Almost half these women have stated that children had seen or heard the violence.

For these reasons and many more, our organisation, initially created as the Foundation to Prevent Violence Against Women and their Children, was established by the Commonwealth of Australia and the State of Victoria in June 2013.

As the inaugural Chair, it was an honour to join my fellow Directors and stand with two great women: the then Commonwealth Minister for the Status of Women, the Hon. Julie Collins MP, and the Victorian Minister for Community Services, the Hon. Mary Wooldridge MP, as they announced our organisation on 26 July 2013.

After our establishment, we engaged immediately and carefully with a wide range of stakeholders across the country as well as spoke with many experienced professionals and individuals. We did this to set solid cornerstones for our organisation. It also confirmed a distinct role for us in providing meaningful and national leadership in motivating everyone in the community – men and women of all ages, as well as businesses, governments and community organisations – to prevent violence against women and their children.

I thank the Premiers, Ministers, Shadow Ministers and Leaders of the Opposition, and other representatives, who either met with me or responded to my letters introducing our new organisation.

My hope is that every jurisdiction will belong to our organisation by our five-year anniversary in June 2018.

Our announcement followed the establishment of Australia’s National Research Organisation for Women’s Safety (ANROWS) earlier in 2013. Both organisations were established as part of the National Plan to Reduce Violence Against Women and their Children 2010-2022. Our organisation and ANROWS have worked closely together as we established both organisational arrangements and our program of work. The leadership of ANROWS on a national program of research focused on reducing violence against women and their children has influenced our strategy, priorities and approach.

There have been many highlights in our first year. One of these was a joint address at the National Press Club with the Victorian Police Commissioner, Ken Lay APM, in late November 2013. This contributed to the Foundation’s voice in the conversation about the prevalence and prevention of violence against women and their children. Immediately after this event, I met with the Chairs (and/or representatives) of the six national Women’s Alliances. This has been a continuing and positive set of relationships particularly with the Australian Women Against Violence Alliance (AWAVA) and the National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Women’s Alliance (NATSIWA).

In November 2013, the Board of Directors appointed the organisation’s first Chief Executive Officer, Paul Linossier, a respected thirty year veteran of the community and public sectors, especially in family and child welfare. His knowledge, experience and passion for social justice are assets to the organisation as we have worked on defining strategy and establishing operations over the first twelve months.

In February 2014, the Board had the opportunity to directly contribute our thinking to the Commonwealth Government’s Second Action Plan 2013-2016 – Moving Ahead. We were pleased to be able to make the case for continued commitment to reducing violence against women and their children through primary prevention.

The work of our organisation now gives expression to many of the activities in the Second Action Plan which was launched in June by the Prime Minister. It has been especially pleasing to see a continued emphasis in the plan on women and children in our communities who are disproportionately affected by this violence; Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women, women with disabilities and women from culturally and linguistically diverse communities.

The Northern Territory Government announced in late March its intention to join our organisation. The prevalence of violence against women in the Northern Territory, relative to its population size, and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women especially, is alarming, making its commitment to our organisation essential. The leadership of Minister Bess Nungarrayi Price was paramount to the Territory’s commitment.

As the reporting period drew to a close, I was also pleased to be in discussion with Premier Jay Weatherill of the Government of South Australia regarding their state’s membership of Our Watch.
We announced our first formal partnership with the Victorian Health Promotion Foundation (VicHealth) in April 2014. This has given us a foundation to embark on developing Australia’s first-ever national framework on primary prevention of violence against women and their children. It will create a shared understanding of what it will take to prevent violence against women and their children in Australia, taking in to account both international evidence and our own emerging evidence base. We were very pleased to have ANROWS join us and VicHealth in this initiative. This work has the chance to be world-leading.

In the first half of 2014, the Board turned its attention to setting the organisation’s strategy and direction. It did so in an environment in which violence against women and their children was firmly on the national agenda. Our Watch plans to keep it there in partnership with other like-minded organisations and individuals and with evidence-based, consistent, and sustainable leadership to achieve our vision for an Australia free from violence.

Every member of the Board is highly motivated to make a difference and through our combined effort and wisdom, we are well placed to make a meaningful difference in the field. I thank them for their hard work and support over the past year and a half. We look forward to building the team and complementing our strengths over the coming period. A particular thanks to the representatives of the Our Watch Members who have helped guide the new organisation and to Michael Corry, Company Secretary, and Paul Linossier and the staff team for their determination to make a real difference.

It is a privilege and responsibility to establish an organisation charged with leading much needed social change.

I look forward to updating you with our progress in the 2014-15 financial year.

Message from the CEO, Paul Linossier

Violence against women and their children is a complex and deeply entrenched problem not only in Australia, but across the world. There are no easy solutions or quick fixes. A sustained reduction in, and ultimately the prevention of, violence against women and their children, requires significant social changes.

In the 2013-14 financial year, we laid the foundations for our long term primary prevention approach which seeks to stop violence against women before it occurs. This is about addressing the deeply ingrained attitudes, beliefs and distorted values that give rise to men’s violence against women and engaging the institutions that reinforce, allow or do not challenge these attitudes.

Over this period, six Board members – whose backgrounds span political, commercial, academic, policy and community spheres – were appointed along with the Company Secretary. Since establishment in June 2013, seven Board meetings were held to the end of the financial year. Alongside guiding the establishment of the organisation, the Board undertook comprehensive briefings on the latest research, evidence and context of preventing violence against women internationally and in Australia. This material is now being progressively released on our organisation’s website to show the basis of the Board’s strategy development and our Theory of Change. Throughout this first year, the Board has offered strong leadership and support to the fledgling organisation and the tireless work of our Chair, Natasha Stott Despoja, has been instrumental to the profile of the organisation.

The then Foundation also started to build the competencies of the organisation through the recruitment of key staff such as the Director, Media and Communications and the Director, Policy and Evaluation. Both appointees had commenced by early 2014 and were quickly followed by a series of recruitments which resulted in the team almost tripling in size by the end of the financial year.

Since establishment, we have sought to develop key relationships at national, state and local levels – with ministers and politicians, researchers and government officials, violence against women agencies and networks, police, appointees and officers of the courts, correctional services officers, counsellors and victims and survivors. We have met with health professionals, media personalities, prevention experts and other non-government organisations involved in leading social change including White Ribbon Australia and beyondblue.
We are indebted to everyone who generously gave their time, expertise and encouragement. This has helped us gain invaluable knowledge about not only the issue, but also those who continue working to manage its devastating consequences.

As our understanding grew, so did the sense that, while a small team, we had the opportunity to contribute to matters of national significance. Our submission to the review of the Australian curriculum on 14 March recommended that support for respectful relationships education in the current draft of the Health and Physical Education Curriculum be maintained. We also made a formal submission on 24 March to the Commonwealth Government’s consultation on the next action plan under the National Plan to Reduce Violence Against Women and their Children 2010-2022.

Every conversation, speaking opportunity and invitation to listen to expertise and experience has shaped our forward strategy and, importantly, our sense of purpose and of the role of Our Watch into the longer term.

We spent much of the second half of the financial year developing our strategic plan (released in September 2014). The emerging program of work envisaged four distinct areas of work:

i. Leading a sustained and constructive public conversation about preventing violence against women and its drivers
ii. Designing and delivering innovative programs to engage individuals and communities
iii. Enabling organisations, networks and communities to effect change; and
iv. Influencing public policy, systems and institutions.

Through this period we initiated a number of projects with the support of our founding members, the Commonwealth Government and the Victorian Government:

- A national media engagement project funded by the Commonwealth Government to improve reporting through media capacity training, website based resources, a national award scheme and a national survivors’ media advocacy program.
- The Line, a primary prevention youth social marketing campaign, initially developed by the Commonwealth Government, focussing on changing attitudes and behaviours that condone, justify and excuse violence against women by engaging young people aged 12 to 20 years.
- Respectful Relationships Education in Secondary Schools in Victoria, will support up to 30 schools to deliver new curriculum guidance, and embed a whole of school approach to respectful relationships.
- Strengthening hospital responses to family violence in Victoria’s Royal Women’s Hospital and Bendigo Health to ensure that doctors, nurses and other staff know how to respond confidently and sensitively when they treat women and their children who have experienced violence.
- Partnering with local organisations to develop tailored violence prevention programs for two culturally and linguistically diverse communities in Victoria.

We have made good headway with these projects. They will form a strong basis for future work in these areas and contribute to an emerging evidence base about prevention practice in Australia.

A national focus and sustained effort is important given the personal, social and economic costs of violence against women and their children which, in the end, are borne by every one of us, and which each of us has the ability to change. To this end we have extended a standing invitation to all governments to join as members of Our Watch.

I have been delighted by the calibre of people who have joined the staff team over the year and look forward to the completion of initial recruitment in early 2015. A particular thank you to Lisa Wheeldon, Lara Fergus, Linda Kristan and Selina Getley who were the team for most of the reporting period.

Thank you also to the Board and the Chair particularly for their support. It has been a privilege to work with this committed leadership team to create a strong foundation for Our Watch.

Snapshot of Priorities for 2014-15

- Build the national movement for the prevention of violence against women and their children.
- Engage media to increase quality reporting of violence against women and their children and build awareness of the impacts of gender stereotyping and inequality.
- Encourage discussion with young people and provide guidance and tools regarding respectful relationships and gender equality.
- Recognise our First Nations and learn from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander elders and leaders about ways of supporting safe and healthy relationships, families and communities.
- Commence a long-term bystander and community information program to encourage and equip individuals and groups in our community and workplaces to speak out and take action to prevent violence against women and their children.
- Identify successful local or regional primary prevention projects and strategies that may be applied more broadly across the country.
- Evaluate Australia’s progress on the prevention of violence against women and their children against international and research benchmarks.
- Foster collaboration and shared learning across sectors and across the country.
- Build a sustainable, respected and effective organisation.
Who we are

History

Our Watch began as the Foundation to Prevent Violence Against Women and their Children, an independent, national, not for profit organisation working to raise awareness and engage the community in action to prevent violence against women and their children.

Registered on 5 June 2013 as a company limited by guarantee, Our Watch was created by the Commonwealth of Australia and the State of Victoria and operates at arm’s length from government. The Northern Territory and South Australian Governments have since become members in March and August 2014 respectively. It is envisaged our membership will broaden over time to include all state and territory governments.

Our organisational vision is an Australia where women and their children live free from all forms of violence. We have a mandate to stop violence before it occurs through primary prevention. Our approach is about challenging deeply ingrained attitudes, beliefs and distorted values that give rise to men’s violence against women and engaging the institutions that reinforce, allow or do not challenge these attitudes.

We aim to reach the largest possible number of people with quality, sustained and meaningful interventions that encourage shifts in the way people think about and behave in relation to gender and violence through:

- improving the public’s awareness of what forms violence can present in a woman’s life
- offering national leadership to prevent all forms of violence against women and children
- community engagement, public discussion and support of practitioners, grow the primary prevention movement and its impact across the country.

Our Watch, in partnership with others, will work over the longer term to achieve our vision.

Charitable status

Our organisation was registered with the Australian Charities and Not-for-Profits Commission on 5 June 2013 which also registered The Fund to Prevent Violence Against Women and their Children Limited on 23 August 2013.

We applied to the Register of Harm Prevention Charities to gain deductible gift recipient status and anticipate this application will be resolved by the end of 2014.

Partnerships

In the 2013-14 financial year we established a memorandum of understanding with VicHealth and Domestic Violence Victoria.

We also made good progress on developing similar arrangements with ANROWS, NATSIWA and White Ribbon Australia.

We anticipate these and other partnerships will be well progressed in 2014-15.

Principal activities

The principal activities of the entity are to promote the prevention of emotional abuse, sexual abuse and physical abuse, specifically, the prevention of violence against women and their children. The Company’s principal activity will be carried out through the following activities:

- raising awareness and engaging the community in taking action to prevent violence against women and their children;
- driving a broad-based change in attitudes that condone or excuse violence against women and their children and promoting respect between women and men, including young people and children;
- working with communities in which women and their children can be especially vulnerable to violence, including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities, culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) communities, and women and children with disabilities;
- protecting children through preventing violence against women, recognising the linkages between violence against women and child safety and wellbeing;
- building a platform to bring together and support existing best practice primary prevention and other community organisations to collaborate in reducing violence against women and their children; and
- establishing an innovative and sustainable company.

There have been no significant changes in the nature of these activities during the period.

Short-term objectives

The entity’s short-term objectives are to:

- Build the national movement for the prevention of violence against women and their children
- Engage media to increase quality reporting of violence against women and their children and build awareness of the impacts of gender stereotyping and inequality
- Encourage discussion with young people and provide guidance and tools regarding respectful relationships and gender equality
- Recognise our First Nations and learn from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander elders and leaders about ways of supporting safe and healthy relationships, families and communities
- Commence a long-term bystander and community information program to encourage and equip individuals and groups in our community and workplaces to speak out and take action to prevent violence against women and their children and
- Identify successful local or regional primary prevention projects and strategies that may be applied more broadly across the country
- Evaluate Australia’s progress on the prevention of violence against women and their children against international and research benchmarks
- Foster collaboration and shared learning across sectors and across the country
- Build a sustainable, respected and effective organisation.

Notes to the financial statements

1 Nature of operations
The entity's principal activities are to drive cultural and attitudinal change to prevent violence against women and their children through community engagement and advocacy.

2 General information and statement of compliance
The general purpose financial statements of the entity have been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012, Australian Accounting Standards – Reduced Disclosure Requirements and other authoritative pronouncements of the Australian Accounting Standards Board. A statement of compliance with the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) as issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) cannot be made due to the entity applying not-for-profit specific requirements contained in the Australian Accounting Standards.

Foundation to Prevent Violence Against Women and their Children Limited is a public company limited by guarantee incorporated and domiciled in Australia. The address of its registered office is c/- Norton Rose Fulbright, RACV Tower Level 11, 485 Bourke Street, Melbourne, Vic 3000 and its principal place of business is 210 Lonsdale Street, Melbourne, Vic 3000.

The entity was incorporated on 5 June 2013. These financial statements report on the period from 5 June 2013 to 30 June 2014. The financial statements were approved and authorised for issue by the board of Directors on 25 September 2014.

3 Changes in accounting policies
3.1 New and revised Standards that are effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2013
A number of new and revised standards are effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2013. Information on these new standards is presented below.

AASB 13 Fair Value Measurement
AASB 13 clarifies the definition of fair value and provides related guidance and enhanced disclosures about fair value measurements. It does not affect which items are required to be fair-valued. The scope of AASB 13 is broad and it applies for both financial and non-financial items for which other Australian Accounting Standards require or permit fair value measurements or disclosures about fair value measurements except in certain circumstances.

AASB 13 applies prospectively for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2013.

The entity has applied AASB 13 in its first year of incorporation.
3. Changes in accounting policies (cont.)

3.1 New and revised Standards that are effective for annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2013 (cont.)

Amendments to AASB 119 Employee Benefits

The 2011 amendments to AASB 119 made a number of changes to the accounting for employee benefits, the most significant relating to defined benefit plans but also measurement of annual leave.

Under the amendments, employee benefits ‘expected to be settled wholly’ (as opposed to ‘due to be settled’ under the superseded version of AASB 119) within 12 months after the end of the reporting period are short-term benefits, and are therefore not discounted when calculating leave liabilities. As the entity does not expect all annual leave for all employees to be used wholly within 12 months of the end of reporting period, annual leave is included in ‘other long-term benefit’ and discounted when calculating the leave liability. This change has had no impact on the presentation of annual leave as a current liability in accordance with AASB 101 Presentation of Financial Statements.

These amendments have had no significant impact on the entity.

3.2 Accounting Standards issued but not yet effective and not been adopted early by the Foundation

New standards, amendments to Standards and Interpretations which have been recently issued or amended but are not yet effective have not been applied to the financial statements for the current period. None of these are expected to have a significant effect on the entity’s financial position or performance.

4. Summary of accounting policies

4.1 Overall considerations

The significant accounting policies that have been used in the preparation of these financial statements are summarised below.

The financial statements have been prepared using the measurement bases specified by Australian Accounting Standards for each type of asset, liability, income and expense. The measurement bases are more fully described in the accounting policies below.

4.2 Revenue

Revenue comprises revenue from government grants, interest and fundraising activities.

Government grants

A number of the entity’s programs are supported by grants received from the federal and state or territory governments.

If conditions are attached to a grant which must be satisfied before the entity is eligible to receive the contribution, recognition of the grant as revenue is deferred until those conditions are satisfied.

Revenue from a non-reciprocal grant that is not subject to conditions is recognised when the Foundation obtains control of the funds, economic benefits are probable and the amount can be measured reliably. Where a grant may be required to be repaid if certain conditions are not satisfied, a liability is recognised at year end to the extent that conditions remain unsatisfied.

Where the Foundation receives a non-reciprocal contribution of an asset from a government or other party for no or nominal consideration, the asset is recognised at fair value and a corresponding amount of revenue is recognised.

Donations

Donations collected are recognised as revenue when the entity gains control, economic benefits are probable and the amount of the donation can be measured reliably.

Interest income

Interest income is recognised on an accrual basis using the effective interest method.

4.3 Operating expenses

Operating expenses are recognised in profit or loss upon utilisation of the service or at the date of their origin.

4.4 Property, plant and equipment

Plant and equipment

Plant and equipment (comprising fittings and furniture) is initially recognised at acquisition cost, including any costs directly attributable to bringing the assets to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by the entity’s management.

Plant and equipment is subsequently measured using cost less depreciation and impairment losses.

Depreciation is recognised on a straight-line basis to write down the cost less estimated residual value of buildings, plant and other equipment. The following useful lives are applied:

- Plant and equipment: 3 - 15 years

Material residual value estimates and estimates of useful life are updated as required, at least annually.

Gains or losses arising on the disposal of property, plant and equipment are determined as the difference between the disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the assets and are recognised in profit or loss within other income or other expenses.

4.5 Leases

Operating leases

Where the Foundation is a lessee, payments on operating lease agreements are recognised as an expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term. Associated costs, such as maintenance and insurance, are expensed as incurred.
4. Summary of accounting policies (Cont.)

4.6 Financial instruments

Recognition, initial measurement and de-recognition

Financial assets and financial liabilities are recognised when the entity becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the financial instrument, and are measured initially at fair value adjusted by transactions costs, except for those carried at fair value through profit or loss, which are measured initially at fair value. Subsequent measurement of financial assets and financial liabilities are described below.

Financial assets are derecognised when the contractual rights to the cash flows from the financial asset expire, or when the financial asset and all substantial risks and rewards are transferred. A financial liability is derecognised when it is extinguished, discharged, cancelled or expires.

Classification and subsequent measurement of financial assets

For the purpose of subsequent measurement, financial assets other than those designated and effective as hedging instruments, are classified into the following categories upon initial recognition:

- Loans and receivables;
- Financial assets at Fair Value Through Profit or Loss (‘FVTPL’);
- Held-To-Maturity (‘HTM’) investments
- Available-For-Sale (‘AFS’) financial assets.

All financial assets except for those at FVTPL are subject to review for impairment at least at each reporting date to identify whether there is any objective evidence that a financial asset or a group of financial assets is impaired. Different criteria to determine impairment are applied for each category of financial assets, which are described below.

All income and expenses relating to financial assets that are recognised in profit or loss are presented within finance costs or finance income, except for impairment of trade receivables which is presented within other expenses.

Loans and receivables

Loans and receivables are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market. After initial recognition, these are measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method, less provision for impairment. Discounting is omitted where the effect of discounting is immaterial. The entity's trade and most other receivables fall into this category of financial instruments.

Individually significant receivables are considered for impairment when they are past due or when other objective evidence is received that a specific counterparty will default. Receivables that are not considered to be individually impaired are reviewed for impairment in groups, which are determined by reference to the industry and region of a counterparty and other shared credit risk characteristics. The impairment loss estimate is then based on recent historical counterparty default rates for each identified group.
Classification and subsequent measurement of financial liabilities
The entity's financial liabilities include borrowings and trade and other payables.
Financial liabilities are measured subsequently at amortised cost using the effective interest method, except for financial liabilities held for trading or designated at FVTPL, that are carried subsequently at fair value with gains or losses recognised in profit or loss.
All interest-related charges and, if applicable, changes in an instrument's fair value that are reported in profit or loss are included within finance costs or finance income.
4.7 Income taxes
No provision for income tax has been raised as the entity is exempt from income tax under Div
4.8 Cash and cash equivalents
Cash and cash equivalents comprise cash on hand and demand deposits, together with other short-term, highly liquid investments that are readily convertible into known amounts of cash and which are subject to an insignificant risk of changes in value.
4.9 Post-employment benefits and short-term employee benefits
The entity provides post-employment benefits through defined contribution plans.
Defined contribution plans
The entity pays fixed contributions to independent entities in relation to superannuation plans for individual employees. The entity has no legal or constructive obligations to pay contributions in addition to its fixed contributions, which are recognised as an expense in the period that relevant employee services are received.
Employee benefits
Short-term employee benefits are current liabilities included in employee benefits, measured at the undiscounted amount that the entity expects to pay as a result of the unused entitlement.
Annual leave is included in 'other long-term benefit' and discounted when calculating the leave liability as the entity does not expect all annual leave for all employees to be used wholly within 12 months of the end of reporting period. Annual leave liability is still presented as current liability for presentation purposes under AAAB 101 Presentation of Financial Statements.
4.10 Provisions, contingent liabilities and contingent assets Provisions are measured at the estimated expenditure required to settle the present obligation, based on the most reliable evidence available at the reporting date, including the risks and uncertainties associated with the present obligation. Where there are a number of similar obligations, the likelihood that an outflow will be required in settlement is determined by considering the class of obligations as a whole. Provisions are discounted to their present values, where the time value of money is material.
Any reimbursement that the entity can be virtually certain to collect from a third party with respect to the obligation is recognised as a separate asset. However, this asset may not exceed the amount of the related provision.

No liability is recognised if an outflow of economic resources as a result of present obligation is not probable. Such situations are disclosed as contingent liabilities, unless the outflow of resources is remote in which case no liability is recognised.

4.11 Deferred income

The liability for deferred income is the unutilised amounts of grants received on the condition that specified services are delivered or conditions are fulfilled. The services are usually provided or the conditions usually fulfilled within twelve months of receipt of the grant. Where the amount received is in respect of services to be provided over a period that exceeds twelve months after the reporting date or the conditions will only be satisfied more than twelve months after the reporting date, the liability is discounted and presented as non-current.

4.12 Goods and Services Tax (GST)

Revenues, expenses and assets are recognised net of the amount of GST, except where the amount of GST incurred is not recoverable from the Tax Office. In these circumstances the GST is recognised as part of the cost of acquisition of the asset or as part of an item of the expense. Receivables and payables in the statement of financial position are shown inclusive of GST.

Cash flows are presented in the statement of cash flows on a gross basis, except for the GST components of investing and financing activities, which are disclosed as operating cash flows.

4.13 Trust

During the period a Public Fund was set up. No transactions occurred in this Fund during the period. It has been determined that the entity has control over this Fund and, once transactions begin, the Fund shall be consolidated under AASB 10 – Consolidation.

4.14 Dependence

The entity is dependent upon the ongoing receipt of Federal and State government grants and community and corporate donations to ensure the ongoing continuance of its programs. At the date of this report management has no reason to believe that this financial support will not continue.

4.15 Significant management judgement in applying accounting policies

When preparing the financial statements, management undertakes a number of judgements, estimates and assumptions about the recognition and measurement of assets, liabilities, income and expenses.

Estimation uncertainty

Information about estimates and assumptions that have the most significant effect on recognition and measurement of assets, liabilities, income and expenses is provided below. Actual results may be substantially different.

Useful lives of depreciable assets

Management reviews its estimate of the useful lives of depreciable assets at each reporting date, based on the expected utility of the assets. Uncertainties in these estimates relate to technical obsolescence that may change the utility of certain software and IT equipment.

Each client relationship with a Grant Thornton member firm of Grant Thornton International Limited (GTIL) is distinct. GTIL and the member firms are not a partnership and are not responsible for each other’s services or actions. GTIL does not provide services through its member firms. GTIL’s liability is limited to the reimbursement of its membership fee Liability limited by a scheme approved under Professional Standards Legislation. Liability is limited in those States where a current scheme applies.

judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial report, whether due to fraud or error.

In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation of the financial report that gives a true and fair view in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by the Directors, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial report.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Independence

In conducting our audit, we have complied with the independence requirements of the Accounting Professional and Ethical Standards Board and the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012.

Auditor's opinion

In our opinion:

1. the financial report of Foundation to Prevent Violence Against Women and their Children Limited is in accordance with the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Act 2012, including:
   i. giving a true and fair view of the entity's financial position as at 30 June 2014 and of its performance for the period ended on that date; and

2. complying with Australian Accounting Standards - Reduced Disclosure Requirements and the Australian Charities and Not-for-profits Commission Regulations 2013.
